Plan now for warble treatment

The D.A. Column

by Doug Walkey

Even though the mosquitoes were bad this summer, the warble flies were out as well. Losses due to warble damage are expensive, too. Gedding can run $45 off a pastured steer over a summer. Wintering steers is one research station found untreated steers to be 39 pounds lighter than treated steers after the same feeding period on the same feed. These losses add up, and being September we should give it some thought to controlling the grubs.

There are four types of warble treatment. The first, best suited to dairy animals, is a spring application of contact insecticides (ie. Rotenone). This is applied at a three-week interval when the warble holes along the back are open. The powers that-be even recommend 400 psi. spray pressure.

Similarly, spraying with systemics is a very challenging task. The chemicals (like ruminaphos) are quite toxic and the sprayer should take appropriate precautions. The animals must be wet to the skin, located in a well ventilated area, and plan on one gallon of solution per head. You'll need warm weather too!

The classic warble control is the good old pour-on. The measured dose of systemic chemical is applied along the animal's spine. Here we're talking of chemicals like Prolate and Negaven.

Another similar method is the "Spotten" application. Spotton is applied as a single spot on the flat part of the hip. I'm going to repeat the SINGLE spot because spreading this on the back is next to useless. Applicators include an easy to use Sigger and a stick gun-type dispenser.

Two cautions with the gun ... first make sure you have no bubbles in the pipe or it measures wrong and second be sure to clean it afterwards and flush with mineral oil. The chemical will wreck the gun over the year if you don't.

Now some cautions that apply to all the chemicals:

- Don't use systemics in January, February or December.
- Watch those wait periods between treatment and slaughter and milking.
- Don't overly excite animals before, during or after treatment.
- Don't treat stressed animals (ie. shipping, dehorning, branding or dj-weaning).
- Don't treat within 10 days of weaning.
- Be sure to allow access to water and exercise after treatment.

Fire destroys local firm's truck

By Stuart Adams

The Drayton Valley Fire Department was called out twice in one day last week. Two fires on Friday resulted in minimal damage to a room at the Westwind Motor Inn and another fire at J and A Trucking of 5405 Industrial Road destroyed a tank truck worth an estimated $20 thousand.

Fire chief Sheldon Fuzon said the cause of the fire has not yet been determined, and is still under investigation.

It occurred at approximately 1:05 p.m., shortly after the driver of the truck, Bruce Laughlin, began draining its contents into a refuse pit. "I was in the shop and looked out the window to see if it was empty and it had just caught on fire," said Mr. Laughlin.

He said there were about two barrels of crude oil and a small amount of water in the tank.

J and A employee Bob Huber telephoned the fire department and they were on the scene almost immediately. But by the time they arrived the truck was engulfed in flames and they were unable to save it.

"Nobody got hurt, that's the main thing," said J and A owner Emile Lambert.

He was surprised the fire had started and speculated it was caused by a mixture of chemicals in the pit. "We've been doing that for 20 years," he added.

Earlier that morning the staff of the Westwind Motor Inn extinguished a fire started in one of its rooms. Fire Chief Sheldon Fuzon said his department received a call at 1:09 a.m.

"The staff at the hotel had the fire under control and called for an investigation from the fire department to ensure the situation was safe," he said.

The fire was caused when the occupant of the room fell asleep and dropped a lit cigarette onto a pile of clothing on the floor. The smoke detector went off and woke him.

Another guest noticed smoke in the hallway and alerted the hotel staff. The occupant of the room was having difficulty finding his way to the door and the staff assisted him out and extinguished the flames.

No information on the amount of damage to the hotel was available at this writing.

Lougheed addresses large crowd

By Stuart Adams

A crowd of approximately 200 people responded enthusiastically to a luncheon address by Premier Peter Lougheed last Thursday at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall.

The tone of his speech was optimistic for the future of Alberta's economy, but he also admitted there will be a number of ups and downs to be faced "on a province-wide basis."

"We're no island in Alberta," he said. "We're probably affected by world events more than any other province."

He cited high interest rates which weren't contemplated four or five years ago as being a major problem, but the recovery of the American economy was noted as being a good sign for Albertans.

A drop in their interest rates coupled with the recent stock market surge and curtailed inflation indicate to him there will be renewed consumer confidence. "The Canadian economy will follow," he said. "There'll be a lag, but it will follow."

He added that Alberta will have the quickest recovery of the provinces.

Soft spots in the Alberta economy are an overbuilding in commercial properties and a weak forest products industry, with the oil and gas industry being another major problem.

In reference to Drayton Valley, he said the Brazeau timber development area situation is being decided upon a couple of years ahead of time. The accelerated decision is in response to the needs of Drayton Valley and Rocky Mountain House for further development.

Diversification of the province's economic base is an important factor for Alberta's future well-being. While he said there is a need for more diversification, it can be considered to be one of the province's strengths.

He looked to the oil and gas industry having "over four per cent growth in 1982" with Alberta leading the way.

The agricultural industry was mentioned with encouragement, to be taken from the way beef prices are holding up. He expected a good harvest to be taken off this year, but lower grain prices are part of a cycle. The Prince Rupert Grain Terminal is expected to help with the situation to get Alberta grain to the export markets.

Addressing the banking community, he said "Get ready to be busy in October.

"There'll be more disposable income that won't be fed into the interest rate system."

He felt this would lead to more consumer confidence. This, coupled with the agriculture and small businesses program, would contribute to a revitalized economy.

In his concluding statements, he said the National Energy Program was not solely responsible for the current

Knifing sends men to court

Two Violet Grove men will be appearing in local court this Thursday on charges relating to a fight which occurred in Drayton Valley on Sept. 7.

According to RCMP, they received a complaint at approximately 1:40 a.m. on Sept. 7 that two people had been injured as a result of knife play in a fight near Dodson Plaza.

Darryel Fleury and Don Winkberg, both of Red Deer, were injured in the fight. The other participants in the row, Donald Strickland and Timothy Strickland of Violet Grove, have been charged in connection with the matter.

Further details cannot be released as the matter is still before the courts, said Corporal Tom Turner.

Drayton Valley RCMP have received a number of theft complaints over the past week, which include reports of goods stolen from vehicles, garages and residences.

According to Corporal Tom Turner, some of the incidents which occurred over the week included the theft of a $400 cheque from a mailbox outside the Western Review on Sept. 7.

Then RCMP received a report from Herman Wiebe of Drayton Valley that his garage had been broken into and a video game, a 40-channel CB unit, two fishing rods and a tackle box had been removed.

Oscar Wange also phoned police on Sept. 7 to report that a large amount of money had been taken from his vehicle which was parked outside Block's Store.

Ray St. Jean of Drayton Valley reported on Sept. 7 that one of the condominiums in town had been broken into.

RCMP suspect that the thefts have been done locally. However, an investigation is still continuing.

"Residents should once again be cautioned to lock their vehicles, garages and residences. Tightening economic times are making thefts a more prevalent problem," said Corporal Turner.

RCMP are investigating a shooting incident which resulted in approximately $300 worth of damages to an Amoco water supply station located in the Medley river flats.

According to Corporal Tom Turner, unknown persons had shot holes in the windows and walls of the building sometime between Aug. 15 and 21.

A number of .22 calibre casings were found at the location. However, an investigation by Constable Bill Watkins is still under way.

An older model red Toro lawnmower was turned into the Drayton Valley RCMP detachment early last week. Anyone having knowledge as to the owner is asked to contact local RCMP, said Corporal Tom Turner.

A yellow 1974 Fiat station wagon was stolen from the Westwind Motor Inn sometime during the night of Sept. 9, said local RCMP.

The vehicle, which was owned by Gordon Palmer of Drayton Valley, was removed from the Westwind Motor Inn parking lot.

To date it has not been recovered. However, police are still investigating.

A local resident reported that during the evening of Sept. 11 or the early morning hours of Sept. 12 someone had flattened three of the tires on a vehicle at the Stuart Holmberg residence in Drayton Valley.

RCMP currently have a number of suspects in the incident, although an investigation by Constable Jeff Smith is still under way.

HERITAGE FUND INTEREST PROGRAMS

ALBERTA MORTGAGE INTEREST REDUCTION PROGRAM

To help relieve the financial strain on Albertans facing high mortgage interest rates, the Alberta Government is offering a mortgage interest reduction program.

You are eligible for this program if:

- you are a resident of Alberta
- you are already a homeowner or are purchasing a home
- the home is or will be your principal residence in Alberta
- you have an existing mortgage on your home

MORTGAGE AMOUNTS OF UP TO $80,000 PER HOME ARE ELIGIBLE

Something You Can Count On

The program will benefit homeowners with existing mortgages at interest rates above 12 ½ per cent, as well as homeowners who are renewing their mortgages and homeowners who are putting a mortgage on the home they are purchasing.

Mortgage interest rates for existing mortgages below 19 ½ per cent will be reduced from the actual rate to 12 ½ per cent based on the remaining amortization period. Interest rates above 19 ½ per cent will be treated as if they were 19 ½ per cent. For new mortgages and mortgages renewed on or after September 1, 1982, most interest rates will also be reduced from the actual rate to 12 ½ per cent.

You will actually receive a rebate from the Alberta Government for the difference in payments between the two mortgage interest rates. Monthly payments for eligible applicants will start in October, 1982 and conclude in September, 1984.

Retroactive Benefits

Your rebate can be retroactive provided you apply before August 31, 1984. There may be a rush in the first few days and you may wish to apply at a later date. You will still receive all the benefits to which you are entitled.

Starting September 27

September 27 is the date you can pick up application forms and brochures from financial institutions and lenders. Visit your financial institution on or after that date for full details of the program.

County approves debentures for schools

By Stuart Adams

The County of Parkland council met last Thursday in Drayton Valley, but a scheduled delegation from the local town council had to cancel its appearance.

A noon luncheon and a speech by Premier Peter Lougheed conflicted with the county meeting agenda. Councillors recessed to attend the engagement.

The meeting is tentatively rescheduled for the next county council meeting.

Information was received that 86 per cent of the tax levy has been paid. County administrator Otto Schuster said this percentage is about normal for this time of year and added that by the end of the year 90 to 95 per cent of the taxes will have been received.

He also said the unpaid taxes are largely for undeveloped lots on subdivided acreages.

Bylaws authorizing debenture borrowing for the Entwistle and Tomahawk schools were passed. The Entwistle School will receive $400 thousand for renovations and additions.

The Tomahawk school will receive $85 thousand to finance the installation of a set of showers.

Another bylaw authorizing the borrowing of $350 thousand for purchase of heavy equipment was also passed.

Councillor Ivan Vovk introduced a motion to raise the speed limit of Highway 621 to Cynthia from 80 to 100 km/hr. After discussion he withdrew his motion and councillor Mann introduced a motion to turn the matter over to the Police Commission for further study.

The discussion centred around the safety of increasing the speed limit.

poor economic conditions. He said the major problem has been the federal budget which has failed to meet any of its objectives.

The Canadianization of our industries was also mentioned as something which has hurt Canadian businesses.

Speaking of the local situation, he said most people expect a winter or spring recovery for the oil and gas industry. "The key is U.S. gas markets."

The Natural Gas Export Tax will be important to Albertans because of the absence of federal export taxes. The provincial government intends "to work closely with industry for natural gas exports."

"Sure we're no island, but we'll be the first to recover," he reiterated at the end of his speech.

Following the luncheon he was asked by The Western Review about concerns by the City of Edmonton over possible pollution of the North Saskatchewan River by a pulp mill near Drayton Valley. He said there is a task force studying the situation, but speculated that there wouldn't be any significant problems in putting a mill on the river.

Hunting regulations will be enforced locally

By Chris Shanahan

The fall hunting season begins today (Sept. 15) and with this opening comes tighter controls and enforcement by area Fish and Wildlife officers.

Adding to the possibility of hunting violations this season is the fact the moose season starts a week later than the season for other big game.

While it's now legal to hunt elk, white-tailed deer and mule deer in areas west of Drayton Valley, sportsmen can't go after moose until Sept. 22.

District Fish and Wildlife officer Don Onofrychuk is concerned this one-week lapse between seasons may cause some problems.

"We're going to be keeping a close watch in the first week to make sure people aren't shooting moose," he said. "There's going to be a lot of people in the bush, and they're going to run into moose."

Mr. Onofrychuk stressed how important it is for hunters to read game regulations so they know the opening dates and what they can hunt.

Along with Evansburg officer Dennis Urban, the local official will be conducting road checks with co-operation from the RCMP.

The consumption of liquor in the bush is a big problem, and Mr. Onofrychuk said they will clamp down on this. Voluntary tickets will be handed out under the Liquor Control Act to all offenders.

"Hunting and liquor don't mix," according to Mr. Onofrychuk, and "we'll be enforcing it severely. We don't need people out in the bush while they're intoxicated."

He reports a heavy demand for licences so far this year, and these permits are available from a number of local outlets, including his office, the Treasury Branch and Sick's Sporting Good in the Derrick Mall.

The mandatory Wildlife Certificate and Resource Development Stamp costs a total of $13.

Mr. Onofrychuk has received numerous bear complaints over the past weeks, and he feels this is largely due to the good local berry crop.

"They're feeding near town and moving around a lot more," the officer explained. As a result the bears are more visible and there have been a number of sightings.

Still, Mr. Onofrychuk stressed residents needn't be concerned.

"We've had no real problems with bears this year," he said. "People shouldn't be too worried. It's just a fact that there are bears in the area."

The local wildlife office, presently located in the Provincial Building, will be moving to the Fidelis Building, at 5005-50th Street, on Sept. 24. Mr. Onofrychuk's office hours will remain Monday to Friday from 8:15 a.m. to noon.

Local enters Katimavik

By Chris Shanahan

Daryl Bergen's association with Katimavik participants in Drayton Valley back in 1979-80 has led to his own involvement in the cultural project.

The 18-year-old Drayton Valley resident left yesterday (Sept. 14) for Swift Current, Sask., to take part in the first of three Katimavik projects.

He'll also go to Alvinston, Ont., and Val D'Amours, New Brunswick, staying at each location for three months.

Katimavik, a national youth program, is made up of three basic components: physical work aimed at protecting or improving the environment; community service through local organizations; as well as cultural and educational aspects.

Daryl said he liked what he saw when the program was in town, and that's what convinced him to apply himself.

Daryl Bergen

The chance to learn the French language and meet people from across Canada are the main things Daryl is excited about.

While he's looking forward to the experience, Daryl is also thinking about the future.

"I hope it will lead to a job in one of the Katimavik projects, hopefully in New Brunswick," he commented. A successful stint as a participant often leads to a full-time position.

People of all ages and all walks of life do important and essential jobs as Red Cross volunteers.

YOU CAN HELP TOO.

Run needs support

It will be interesting to see whether or not this Sunday's Terry Fox Run receives as much support as it did last year.

It was the first run held and came following a nationwide media campaign. Now, the question will be if Drayton Valley residents were caught up by the national fervor, or were they expressing their true sentiments?

Pledges totalling more than $10 thousand were raised by some 120 runners. That's a respectable turnout, but there is always room for improvement.

The key will be the degree of participation by the town this year.

It is not necessary to actually run or walk the course. Support can be given by sponsoring the participants. That is where the funds for cancer research will come from.

Now is the time to think of commitment and give towards that end. Once is not enough and a donation every year towards such a cause is a small price to pay.

The Western Review is sponsoring a runner, but the reasoning behind it is not for the publicity. It doesn't matter who garners the donations; what matters is that we don't forget to donate.

We are lucky to have had a Terry Fox to rally around for such a worthy cause. Let's not make our support a one-time contribution.

Shuffle brings changes

It's difficult to decide whether or not Pierre Trudeau's recent cabinet shuffle puts us in the frying pan or the fire.

Most notable among the changes are the moving of Marc Lalonde to the finance portfolio and Allan MacEachen to external affairs.

On the one hand we get rid of Mr. Lalonde from his job as energy minister where he masterminded the National Energy Program. But on the other he's being parachuted into Allan MacEachen's six-and-five restraint program and budget of June 28.

Now he has the entire economy to play with instead of the oil and gas industry. The ramifications of the opportunities for more far-reaching mistakes by him are frightening.

Allan MacEachen isn't out of the cabinet picture yet with his external affairs posting. Hopefully he won't perpetrate similar damage there as he did with the finance portfolio.

What both men leave behind are entanglements for their successors to solve. In the case of Mr. Lalonde's new appointment he faces the biggest problem.

He will be viewed with suspicion by the business sector and is essentially hamstrung from the start. The only logical reason Pierre Trudeau chose him is Mr. Lalonde's toughness.

The more logical solution would be to call an election and begin with a new mandate, but that's hoping too much.

Opinions

Perspectives

by Chris Shanahan

There's less than a week left until the second annual Terry Fox Run, and it's easy to see that local enthusiasm is reaching epidemic proportions.

While various newly-competitors have sprung up out of the woodwork over past weeks, one must remember the true significance of such a run.

Not only is it a chance to help raise funds for cancer research, it also serves as a means to carry on Terry's spirit and determination.

His Marathon of Hope was the kind of courageous act that we should all try never to forget. Sunday's jaunt is a way in which, for at least one day of the year, we can all remember the huge contribution made by this one-legged hero.

Participation alone is enough, but there's added incentive when you have the support of your fellow citizens. Therefore, if you don't intend to actually run in the marathon, then sponsor a participant.

Donating money is a lot to ask anyone during uncertain economic times, but a small contribution is all that's needed. If everyone gives a little, it will help to make things that much better.

Last year's event was a great success, with over 100 local residents hitting the pavement for the 10-kilometre trek. Even more impressive was the approximately $10,000 raised from pledges.

This total over-shadowed many communities with populations two or three times as large as Drayton Valley. Hopefully, there'll be a similar response this year.

Sunday's run differs from the past in that it has seen the emergence of some individual competitors, displaying some rather unique training techniques.

What began as a type of publicity stunt has caught on and encouraged other runners to take up the challenge. A lone competitor hauling the Berrymoor Ferry for practice has given away to training sessions which include huge trucks and police cruisers.

Now, the showdown is on and participants like Sally "I've Got Wings On My Feet" Swiftchuk have only a few days to polish the skills they've worked so hard to obtain.

On marathon day, the typical pre-race fanfare will give away to the fierce competitive nature which lies within the combatants. Then, the hours with winch cables strapped around waists will be forgotten and the classic confrontation of runner against runner will be on.

The finish line in Rotary Community Park will undoubtedly be the scene of much drama and even heartache as runners make their way through the last desperate kilometres.

Styles will differ greatly, as some participants dash, while others plod, and still others scoot across the line. No matter how they make it, the important fact is not to stop until the entire distance is complete.

The initial race now every competitor make the distance, no matter how long it took. A member of the local constabulary even had to be carried across the finish line on a stretcher—but he still made it.

Really, regardless of who wins Sunday's race, the real winner will be the cause for which Terry fought so valiantly.

So, when somebody comes looking for a pledge, take a second to think about what the run is really all about, and then dig a little deeper.

It's only once a year, and it sure deserves your support.

Drayton Valley needs a swimming pool

As President of the Neptune Swim Club in Drayton Valley I would like to take this opportunity to tell the people of Drayton Valley about our club.

The swim club has been active for about 18 years and in that time we have come full circle with the people who swam with the club in the beginning years coaching the kids who are swimming now.

Our kids train hard all summer, with the help of the coaches and former club members Lorne Regnier and Nell Samis and their assistant coach Kim Ward, a university student who swam competitively in Yellowknife. The swimmers put forth their best effort to try and win in their age groups at competitions.

From the youngest group of eight and under to the oldest of 17 and over, along with the coaches and parents, a full effort is made by all to keep the club running as smoothly as possible. There is a lot of hard work and effort put into a summer of training and the organizing of meets by all those involved. These long hours are forgotten when even one of our swimmers places at regionals or provincials.

However, progress has taken its toll on our club. When the club was first started its members could compete with the best in the province. Our present coaches are both provincial record holders from those starting years. Over the years we have continued to place fairly well but each year it becomes harder to hold our own against swim clubs who start training a month and a half before we do because they have an indoor facility.

These children also have the advantage of staying in shape during the winter months when our pool is shut down. The consequences of this lack of facilities has been that our membership each year dwindles because without this extra training the new people in the club cannot hope to compete against those better trained clubs and soon loose interest.

The purpose of our club is to get the participants involved, to keep them off the streets and out of trouble, as well as teach them that they have to work hard for what they want. It teaches them sportsmanship and allows them to have some fun with other children across the province.

Drayton Valley needs a swimming pool, not only for the children but for everyone. Swimming is one of the sports that can be enjoyed by people of all ages.

Our club has pledged $1,000 dollars towards a new indoor pool and to raise this money we are holding a raffle of lawn furniture and are running a dance on Sept. 18th at the Legion Hall. We hope the citizens of Drayton Valley will come out and support this cause. If we all work together to help raise money a new indoor pool will become more than a dream. It will become a reality.

At this time I would like to thank the pool staff, coaches and the parents and children who have helped to make this last year a swimming success.

Thank You
R.A. Oscar

Ceasars split weekend games

Drayton Valley Ceasars split their two weekend games in the Central Alberta Rural Towns Soccer League (CARTSL).

They dumped Mayerthorpe 5-1 in a match played at West Valley Park on Saturday, but dropped a close 1-0 decision to league-leading Stony Plain on Sunday.

Player-coach Chris Kelly scored two goals to pace Drayton Valley over Mayerthorpe, while Les Haveteri and Chris Duffy had singles. Their fifth marker came from an unidentified Ceasar player on a goal-mouth scramble.

Coach Kelly said the one-sided win was a confidence builder for Ceasars heading into the CARTSL playoffs. They're fighting for second place with a record of one win, one loss and four ties.

"We were coming back to our old form. We played as a team and passed the ball around well," he said.

The coach added strong defensive play from veterans like Doug Borland helped Ceasars in the win. Chris Kelly was chosen offensive star of the game, while, Bob Smith took defensive honors.

Although they lost to Stony Plain, Kelly said Ceasars played a strong game.

"We played well considering Stony Plain is the top team in the league," he commented. It was their seventh win in as many starts.

Drayton Valley dominated the first half of play, but a "lucky goal" by Stony Plain took some wind out their sails. Kelly said. The ball came in on a corner kick and deflected into the net off a tangle of players.

He termed it "a moral victory" for Ceasars because it was probably the closest any team has come to defeating the powerful Stony Plain side.

Goalkeeper Simon Kelly was Drayton Valley's defensive star, and Chris Duffy was the offensive player of the game for the losers.

Ceasars' final game of the regular season is Sept. 19 in Spruce Grove. The playoff round is set for West Valley Park on Sept. 25, when all five CARTSL clubs will take aim at the championship.

Increased operating costs have forced the Drayton Valley Figure Skating Club to raise membership fees for the upcoming season.

Club president Val Tucker said the higher cost of ice rental in the arena is a main reason for the fee hike.

Canadian Figure Skating Association private lessons will cost $185 per skater, while National Group lessons will be $55 per student, she said.

Registration was held Sept. 14, but no figures on the total attendance were available at press time. A general meeting will be held on Sept. 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the Ammon Safety Hall.

Returning instructors will be Lorna Mutch and Debbie Joy Hogan, as well as Debbie Regular, who previously taught figure skating in Drayton Valley for six years.

Other members of the new club executive include Bev Anderson, first vice-president; Pam Regenwetter, second vice-president; Lyn Kittler, third vice-president; and Mary Wilson, treasurer.

Mrs. Tucker said the executive is going to try to be more open to the public this year.

"We realize we use public funds, so we'll try and inform people how we're using their money," she explained.

This will include posting the minutes from meetings on the bulletin board in the arena, Mrs. Tucker said.

While there isn't much information available on the club's plans for this time, this winter she said some special activites are planned during National Figure Skating Week—set for the last week in October.

Registration down

Enrollment appears to be down in the local minor hockey association, after the main registration night held on Sept. 9.

While no exact totals are available, association member Sheldon Fiesen said he sees a noticeable trend away from minor hockey.

"I know for one thing it was either hockey or Scouting for my kids this year, and I chose Scouting," Fiesen commented.

The increasing cost of the sport is said to be a main reason why some parents are reluctant to enroll their children in ice hockey. Fees for the 1982-83 season are as much as $75 per player.

Junior loop expands

By Chris Shanahan

M&R Trucking Commanders will be playing in a much expanded west zone of the Central Alberta Junior B Hockey League (CAJBHL) during the 1982-83 campaign.

At a meeting of league executive in Red Deer on Sunday, a field of 10 teams was finalized for play in the west loop of the CAJBHL.

Clubs will be entered from Olds, Red Deer, Rimbey, Hobbema, Fort McMurray, Barrhead, Stettler, Whitecourt, Hinton and Drayton Valley. The eastern zone will have nine clubs.

Last season Drayton Valley Commanders skated in a four-team division, along with Hinton Cardinals, Whitecourt Warriors and Edson Arrows. Edson has disbanded this year.

According to Commander manager Ernie Stables, the larger league will hopefully result in better fan support this season.

"It should be a good league. Teams will not be playing each other so much," he commented. "This should be better for the fans."

There will be a balanced 36-game schedule, with clubs playing each other four times during the regular season.

Aside from his managerial duties with the local juniors, Stables will also serve as west zone chairman and CAJBHL commissioner. Wayne Lannon of Whitecourt will act as league secretary.

Although he feels it's too early to predict how the club will do on the ice, Stables said he's confident Drayton Valley will be competitive. Lee Sinclair will again be the coach.

Stables said the regular season will get under way on Oct. 31, and Commanders will be starting pre-season workouts in the near future. Any interested players, aged 16 and up, can contact the manager at 542-4088.

The team plans to produce a hockey program and hold a raffle as their main fund raising projects.

A television satellite will be the grand prize in the draw, with other items being a 20-inch color television and a home video unit.

Stables said a maximum of 400 tickets will be sold at a cost of $60 each. There will be a total of $9,000 in prizes, he added.

Rodeo goes this weekend

The Moonlight Trail 4-H Light Horse Club will be holding its first annual Drayton Valley rodeo at West Valley Park on Saturday and Sunday (Sept. 18 and 19).

The competition, expected to attract a number of top local riders, will start at 1 p.m. both days.

Included in the list of cowboys will be Allan Brown of Drayton Valley in bull riding and Wayne Powell of Seba Beach in saddle bronc.

Gate admission will be $5 for adults, $3 for those aged eight to 12, with children seven and under free.

A western dance featuring the group Alberta Country will be staged on Saturday evening at the Elks Hall. It starts at 9 p.m. at a cost of $6 per person.

There will also be a beef barbecue on Saturday and a pancake breakfast on Sunday. Both will be held on the grounds.

New Grouch for Evansburg

By Stuart Adams

Roy Hadley will be the grouchiest person in Evansburg for the next year after Saturday's Grouch of the Year contest.

The 65-year-old representative of the Olden Oldtimer hockey team has outgrouched Annabel Taylor, Al Tenhauser and Alice Grant for the award. "Somebody had to run, so they said, 'he's a grouchy coach, so we'll nominate him'," chortled Mr. Hadley.

"I make them pick up their stuff and look after it."

He also attributed his prowess to 25 years of driving a school bus. "That's why I'm grouchy," he said.

Then he added that actually he loves kids, but said now that he's the grouch he can't anymore.

As he was being interviewed someone stopped and suggested they go fishing sometime, but caught themselves and withdrew the suggestion saying they couldn't now that he's been chosen the grouch.

forward to it," was Mr. Hadley's comment.

Mary Cumming, last year's grouch, presented him with the trophy cup and wished him luck. She said she has enjoyed her year as the grouch. "If there was anything I wanted to grouch or grumble about I was well within my rights to do it," she explained.

"I urged Roy to take advantage of it."

She added he can look forward to having good fun with the new role and meeting a lot of people. He can also expect many of his Christmas cards to refer to his being the grouch.

Mr. Hadley is the fourth Evansburg Grouch of the Year. Prior to him, Ike Grant was the first winner, who was followed by Dubert Farrell and then Mary Cumming.

The origin for the idea is somewhat obscure. It came from the sign posted at the entrance to the town. Johnny Lauer, who made it, said he had heard that there is a town listing "one grouch" as part of its population. He decided to include it on his sign and since then he hasn't heard anything about the other town.

Once the sign was put up the question became, "Who's the Grouch?" It was after that the contest was born.

"I would hope that as people once enter someone in our town who isn't the most pleasant person they would say, he's the grouch," said Mr. Lauer.

The award was given in conjunction with the Lions Club pot luck supper and dance. A cheque for $200 was also presented to the Evansburg-Entwistle Lions Club by the Royal Canadian Legion Ladies' Auxiliary to assist the Lions with their various projects.

The presentation was made by Edna Croft to Lions president Cecil Croft.

Heritage Fund revenue to be re-channeled

By Cecil White and Kevin Peterson

About $4 billion once tagged for the Heritage Fund will be re-channeled to general government spending over the next two years.

This will be the effect of the major policy changes announced by Premier Peter Lougheed on province-wide television earlier this month in conjunction with the unveiling of interest-shielding plans for homeowners, farmers and small businessmen.

The government's decision to spend, rather than re-invest some $2.5 billion in interest income earned by the Heritage Fund, marks a sharp departure from past policy.

And the decision to cut the contribution of resource revenues to the Heritage Fund to 15 per cent from 30 per cent is an equally dramatic move, pumping at least $1.5 billion into the government's general revenue account.

Although Lougheed dwelt on interest rate relief during his 45-minute address to Albertans, the two programs involved will only account for roughly $1 billion of the $4 billion released for spending.

Approximately $2 billion of the remainder will be used to sweep the royalty and tax concessions awarded to the oil and gas industry last spring.

The government has not yet indicated how the remaining $1 billion will be expended, although it will give the province plenty of room to manoeuvre as it seeks to balance its books and curry voter favor in an election year.

Lougheed made no mention of an impending election during his TV appearance and afterwards indicated the government's intentions were still to wait until next spring before summoning Albertans to the polls.

At any rate, a fall legislative session will be required to make changes in law that will permit the government to dip into the Heritage fund for current spending needs.

A change in the level of resource revenue contributions to the fund can only be made by new legislation. And a special bill will also be needed to draw on the Heritage Fund's earnings.

That the government would need to withdraw money from the Heritage Fund at this time was almost inconceivable less than a year ago.

When the Heritage Fund was set up it was thought the fund wouldn't be needed for current expenses until 1990 when oil and gas revenues were expected to start falling.

But the depth of the current recession has dictated that the government turn to the fund even while resource revenues continue to grow.

Lougheed insists the principle of the Heritage Fund is still intact although it will grow much more slowly in the next two years at least.

The Council tentatively will have to repay $236,000.00 by way of debenture repayable in 25 consecutive annual instalments with interest at the rate as determined from time to time by the Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation. PROPANE
- the now alternative to gasoline -

Since 1973, the rapidly growing cost of gasoline and the unsettled supply situation, even here in Canada, has spurred Canadians to seek alternative fuel supplies. Of the many alternatives available, propane is the most practical fuel to power vehicles for the eighties:

Why Convert Your Gasoline Fleet To ICG Auto Propane?

* More plentiful
* Longer engine life
* Cuts down servicing
* More efficient

Price Range on Propane Conversions $1250. & Up with 55 Gal. Tank

Propane Cost & Availability
-Propane already costs significantly less than gasoline in most of Canada, and the price gap is likely to widen.
-The Government is monitoring propane prices and availability to ensure that new markets are adequately developed.
-Propane is widely available in Canada from propane distributors although some may not yet be equipped to sell propane for vehicles.

Federal Government Incentive
In order to encourage conversion from gasoline to propane, the Government of Canada will rebate $400. of the cost of conversion of fleets.
This request is a substantial proportion of the total cost of converting the average vehicle.

Equipment Inventory
ICG and Gilla Oilfield Construction Ltd. keeps an inventory of ICG AUTO-PROPANE/IMPCO parts on hand for rapid conversion of large or small fleets on short notice. In addition to ensuring safety of supply through our local warehousing of conversion components, we are embarked upon an agressive program to have as many of these components manufactured in Canada as possible.

Conversion Supervision
ICG's concern for the proper operation of your fleet on ICG AUTO-PROPANE extends to offering you technical experts who will supervise the conversion and ensure your fleet will be in top operating condition from the start. If you have a large fleet to convert than we will assign a Project Management Group to your fleet to make your conversion program to ICG AUTO-PROPANE a reality.

Scouting groups register

By Chris Shanahan

There was a good turnout of parents for registration of local Beavers, Cubs and Scouts at the Scout Hall on Monday evening (Sept. 13).

The gathering also served as a general meeting of the Scout Group Committee, at which plans for the upcoming season were discussed.

Registration is strong this year, particularly with Beavers aged five, six and seven. However, there are still openings in Cubs (ages eight, nine and 10) and Scouts (ages 11, 12 and 13).

There appears to be enough leaders in most groups, although it was stressed at the meeting that anybody who wishes to help is welcome.

The local Scout troop is still in need of co-leaders, and persons interested in helping out can obtain more information by calling Chris at The Western Review at [illegible].

The contact for Cubs is Dwight Denton at 542-3986.

The session included brief presentations from the representatives of the three groups, outlining plans for the new campaign.

A variety of excursions and learning activities are slated for Beavers, Cubs and Scouts.

Also, a spokesman for the Hall Committee described to those in attendance the recent renovations which have brought the hall up to fire safety standards.

The facility has been greatly improved and committee members are hopeful this will attract citizens who wish to rent it for social functions.

A meeting of the Hall Committee is scheduled for Sept. 27, and all interested parents are invited to attend.

A number of fund raising projects are in the planning stage, including the annual bottle drives, and more details will be disclosed at further meetings of the Scout Group Committee.

Boxing organizes

By Roxanne Greenley

Pembina and Violet Grove boxing clubs will be holding their first practice at 6:30 p.m. this Thursday in the Elementary B gymnasium.

The evening, which was originally scheduled as a registration night, is to be held primarily as a practice. The club is open to boys of all ages and practices will be held every Tuesday and Thursday night from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

According to club coach Tom Turner, the registration has been delayed until after the first four practices.

"We are doing this to ensure that the boys like the program before they pay any registration fees," said Mr. Turner.

He added that this year's fees will be $25 for youths 16 years and over and $20 for those 15 and under. There is also a family rate of $65 which allows the family to register as many members as they want.

The registration fees include not only the local club fee but also registration with the Alberta Amateur Boxing Association.

He went on to say that the clubs have planned a number of activities for the upcoming season. These will include a referee and judges' clinic on Oct. 9 and 10 as well as the first club card on Oct. 16.

New speech therapist starts

By Stuart Adams

Between 40 and 50 children will receive speech therapy this year in Drayton Valley from the new speech therapist for the Alberta West Central Health Unit.

Margo Haensel is in her third week on the job, replacing Jennel Shupena who has moved to Grand Centre. Drayton Valley has had a resident speech therapist for a little more than two years.

"A lot of the speech clients will have articulation problems," such as lisps or "w's" for "r's," said Miss Haensel.

The two problems are "easy to correct," she added, with an almost 100 per cent success rate. They are designated as "functional problems" as opposed to physical problems brought on by a stroke or an accident.

Gayle Wager, acting senior speech pathologist, based in the health unit's head office in Edson, said five to 10 per cent of the population has some type of communication problem.

"Almost half of them are articulation problems and 80 to 70 per cent of the speech problems are easily correctable," she said.

The health unit provides therapy for preschool children and occasionally adults with school age children being handled through the school system. There is no set time period for correcting a problem. Some children may need only two or three months of therapy while others may need years.

There is a waiting list for children needing therapy. "We take clients on a priority basis," said Miss Wager.

The more severe problems handled by the therapist will have more than a simple lisp problem. "The child may have as many as 10 speech sounds in error," said Miss Haensel.

All patients are taken on a referral basis. A doctor, the public health nurse or a kindergarten teacher may refer them for treatment.

Parents may contact the speech therapist, but the referral would have to come through the public health nurse.

Miss Haensel graduated last spring from the University of Alberta with a B. Sc. in Speech Pathology and Audiology. She is originally a Calgary resident.

First drilling rig used in 1858 in Pennsylvania

By John Gorman

Heritage Park in Calgary is a recreated pioneer village featuring buildings and equipment as they were when the Alberta plains were homesteaded. Among the more interesting structures is a wooden oil derrick, still capable of drilling with a cable tool powered by a steam boiler.

But the practical life of the cable tool rig ended in Turner Valley in the 1920s.

A cable tool is a large, heavy chisel attached to the end of a piece of one-inch wire rope or steel cable so that it could be dropped, retrieved and dropped again.

Hugh Leiper, who grew up in Turner Valley and is one of the most respected drilling men in the oil patch, remembers seeing the cable tools and the wooden derricks as a child.

A keen student of his craft, Hugh supplied some research material which gave the genesis of the oil rig. Almost all of the major oil exploration areas in the United States were discovered with the help of the wooden derrick and the cable tool: Pennsylvania, Texas, Oklahoma, California.

Colonel Drake is given the principal credit for introducing the four-legged derrick to American drilling. It was first used in Pennsylvania in 1858. He didn't invent the idea of the derrick: that may have started with some Egyptian engineer in the days of the Pharoahs, for men have used frames for hoisting since the beginning of recorded history.

Long before men intentionally drilled for oil they were drilling for water or salt. Before Colonel Drake pounded his 69-foot-deep hole in the hills of Pennsylvania and discovered the first U.S. oilwell, wells had been drilled to depths beyond 2,000 feet by men seeking an artesian water supply.

These early drillers used single poles anchored at an angle or they used a pair of poles called shears or sampsons and they frequently used a tripod. The Chinese built elaborate bamboo frames used to suspend tools used in drilling for salt.

Drake built a wooden derrick that stood about 32 feet tall and cost about $20 to build. It had four logs and all sides were fully covered with horizontal boards.

When his well was a success and the U.S. oil industry was launched, drillers who followed him used similar equipment which became known as Drake frames.

Record Rack

by Johnny Quadraphonic

Album: Avalon, artist: Roxy Music, label: Warner, retail: available at Longard Electronics Radio Shack in Drayton Valley and Little John's Radio Shack in Stony Plain.

Roxy Music's Avalon LP is progressive in nature, but only on the surface. What the band is really after seems lost in their futile search for an inner answer.

The title cut is vintage Roxy Music, but things go downhill from there on this glossy, plastic release.

In their effort to grow musically, the group has lost much of its early appeal. They may be trying to get across some deep message, but Johnny hasn't found out what it is yet.

What Roxy Music is getting at in tunes like While My Heart Is Still Beating, To Turn You On and The Space Between is hard to grasp for even the most devoted follower.

The lyrics are often shallow and the so-called "modern sound" is actually quite unimaginative.

Avalon isn't a total wipe-out, but you'd expect a little better effort from a band with a strong reputation for consistency like Roxy Music.

Johnny would recommend passing this one up and waiting a year or so when they'll be out to redeem themselves with a first-rate release.

Retirement party held to honor Bates

By Edith Daby
542-5451

A retirement party was held at the Drayton Valley Hotel on Sept. 9 to honor Margaret Bates who had served on the staff of the Drayton Valley Hospital for 21 years, 18 of them with medical records.

Ivan Yovk and Maurice McCullagh represented the County of Parkland.

Among the many tokens of esteem presented to Margaret were: a plaque from the hospital board; a tiffany stained glass lamp, a wrist watch, and a tray and spoon from the Rural Aid Society; a set of crystal wine glasses from the nurses; an ashtray and mug from the nurses' aids; and as a sentimental gesture the typewriter she started with. Best wishes for many happy years in retirement, Margaret.

Harley and Edele Vig had a three-week holiday in Germany this summer. Edele was born there but came to Canada with her parents at an early age. While there Harley and Edele visited relatives from several cities, seeing a good bit of the country in the short time they had.

Stella and Robert LaBlanc have moved to make their home in Sherwood Park. Stella had been in the Treasury Branch here for eight years. Robert, a bookkeeper, will be working with a large poultry farm.

Best wishes for a happy future go to Mr. and Mrs. John McLaughlin, nee Colette Lemermeyer, who were married in St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church on Sept. 11. Father Frank Stemate officiated.

How about a new twist to the lottery game

By Joanne Bunger

We buy a Winday ticket every Wednesday. We'd buy tickets for the bigger lotteries, too, but we're too poor.

There has to be a knack to winning, we've figured out. Only we still haven't figured out what that knack is.

The first ticket I ever got had the last three digits right so I got five free tickets, and one was a double.

Two months later, I nearly made it. I had every single digit right except the third last one—which means I didn't win a thing! Never before, or since, have I wished more that I was a counterfeiter and could change that one digit. It was as if when it should have been a 1

There has to be a way to improve the odds, short of buying a number-stamping set, I decided.

Then my sister told me they'd bought a ticket for the big one, which gives a million dollars. "If we win, you get $10,000," she said.

"How come?" I asked.

"Well, we decided if we tithed 10 per cent to our friends and relatives, it might improve our odds," she explained.

They never won the million, of course, but we still thought it was a good idea.

With our next Winday ticket, we tithed the first $10,000 to my sister. Every relative would have a turn.

When each relative had a turn that way, we turned to outright gifts just in case we weren't winning because they would have such a rough time deciding how to spend the money.

One ticket, we said would have winnings for us plus a trip to Africa with a safari group for both of our brothers and their wives. We never won.

"Might be just as well," said my husband. "They are both such stay-at-home types I can't see them in Africa."

"That's why I thought we might win," I said. The next ticket would have brought his sister and all her children to live with us on our farm. Whew, we would have spent the rest of our winnings building housing for them.

"Perhaps our relatives aren't meant to win," said my husband, which made us decide to employ the TV swingwithus.

Each has his turn to get a share of the winnings should we win. Since some say gambling is a sin, I don't know if chances of winning are better with the best or with the worst!

Maybe the economy needs help, too, I decided, so as well, we tithe a bit to buying something we've got an advertisement for I pick it at random and let chance, not my tastes, dictate.

Everything made has a use, I tell myself, and this week's selection would be a grand piano. Well, they wouldn't sell pianos if they weren't good, and we can always learn to play and build a space to put it in should we win.

We may not have learned the knack of winning a lottery, but we have learned the knack of losing enjoyably.

Best of all, we aren't alone when we lose now. If our numbers don't come up this Wednesday, it will be bad luck for Oral Roberts and the piano manufacturer as well as for us. Misery loves company, and we have quite impressive company—even if they don't know it.

M&R TRUCKING'S COMMANDER was stuck again and Sally Swiftchuk is just hauling it out.

Dear Editor:

In response to your article on the front page of last week's newspaper, regarding Scooter—your Marathon Man, I feel obligated to tell you a little about his competition.

In all due respect to a diet of sunflower seeds and barley sandwiches, I find that the iron that I receive from my daily dose of chewed-up beer bottles, 10 raw eggs and bullets, a much more substantial regimen for runners of our calibre (Get it?—bullets ... calibre, ari ari ari)

My training consists of a daily run from the Old Hotel Bar (where I get my endless supply of beer bottles) to the bottom of the Drayton Valley Ski Hill. And just as a point of interest, when M&R gets they Commander stuck, they don't get out a winch truck, they call me.

So Scooter, if you feel you have this race wrapped up, I raise the gauntlet to you. Looking forward to watching you eat my dust on the 19th.

Mounties enter

Members of the Drayton Valley RCMP detachment have reacted to Chris "Scooter" Shanahan's entry into the Sept. 19 Terry Fox Run with overwhelming support.

Team RCMP trainer Corporal Chris Lee said his boys would be on the course bright and early looking forward to "spurring on the fleetfooted lad."

"This is just what my boys needed to run their best," said trainer Lee.

He said although they have called themselves "Team RCMP", there are a couple of reasons for the members running the event.

Most important to his men was that they run, not for the sake of winning, but for the sake of Terry Fox and the cause he did so much to further.

"They feel the obvious thing is to run under the same banner," he explained, "but they are also running as individuals for Terry Fox's cause.

"It's keeping with this idea they're not looking upon it as a race."

Secondly, he said his men felt that although they had no hope of beating Scooter, they could help do push him to do his best.

"We had received reports of someone towing the lurry," he said, "but we passed them off as a practical joke.

"Then we saw the article and realized Scooter was serious.

"Our boys have stuck to more conventional training methods such as hauling around cruisers."

He added that in the light of the disclosure of Scooter's awesome training techniques Team RCMP had decided to join him in his quest for the elusive one-hour and three minute time.

"We'll be trying to pace him and give him incentive to run harder," said trainer Lee.

When dogs and cats are more than that

Out Our Way

by Wendy Thomson

It's sometimes a little difficult to understand how people can call us animal "Just a dog" or "Just a horse." If an observer watches long enough, they might notice any animal playing more than one role.

In the movie Grizzly Adams, the man mentions a badger playing "flat rock." And indeed, the badger was spread out absolutely flat and unmoving, a perfect rock.

Rusty, our German Shepherd, has one favorite role of "pilot." When a car enters the drive, he insists on "leading it" up to the house, prancing just ahead of the bumper, looking over his shoulder to make sure he's being followed closely.

Actually, he's more of a pain than a help, but he seems to think it's a necessary role

Other days he plays "Scrub," sitting in majestic pose, with his head lowered slightly so that his ruff makes a grand showing, much like an Elizabethan collar.

But other days, his role is that of complete fool. He dashes about madly with his tongue hanging down to his knees, round and round in circles, under the steps, over the cats, stopping every now and then to dig a series of small holes (for whatever reason).

And, of course, he is a Watch Dog. He doesn't make too much fuss when cars drive in, but insists on coming in the house with people and ... watching. He's watched numerous phone calls, one cosmetic demonstration, one bread making demonstration, and most keen conversations. What he makes of it all, I have no idea.

Then there's the cats. Everyone knows that cats have endless roles, and new ones appear constantly.

Arthur, the great-grey tom, is very good at playing dead-cat on the drive and all its variations, (dead-cat-on the-lawn, on-the-porch, etc.)

His other famous impersonation is of a baby, all 16 pounds of him lying on his back in Gord's arms, talking seriously and convincingly about how nobody else will cuddle him, talk to him, or

This summer, Patty-cat has developed a new role and I'm not sure why. It's that of provider

Many times during the day (and night) she'll appear with a fresh mouse and lay it carefully in the middle of the kitchen floor if I'm working

At night, I'll be awakened by a mouse-in-stiffed mew, as Patty hops up on my bed and lays her "gift" beside me if I don't waken enough to say "That's nice but go take it somewhere else," the next sound I hear is a crunch.

I tried shutting her out of the room one night, but not only did it get too stuffy, but when I opened the door in the morning, there was a small pile of grey furry things in lying against it.

All in all, these cat-doors that permit cats to come and go as they please do have Yesterday, I caught Patty playing "Fly." The wall beside my bed is carpeted, and she found she could walk straight up it, hang just below the ceiling, then drop when she was the least expected.

Actually, it must have been something more than "Fly," because no fly I've seen has wide, wicked eyes like hers were.

And today she was "Mole." As I changed the beds, a small body could be seen tunneling around under the sheets. On the other hand, no mole would reach out and smack an unwary knee that happened to come too close.

You know, when it comes right down to it, we don't have just two cats and a dog here ... we have a whole menagerie!

Traditional fruit preparations for the winter

The Homemaker

by Janice McGregor
542-[illegible]

By Janice McGregor
542-5389

Many people have been requesting recipes for rumtopf, or friendship fruit, as it's sometimes called. I hope this information, from "I've never lit" will provide hints on this fruit concoction.

Rumtopf is a combination of summer fruits, preserved with sugar and pleasing [illegible] rum.

Traditionally you start the rumpot with strawberries, the first fruit of the season, and then as each fruit is harvested across the summer it is mixed with sugar and added to the pot.

You need a small crock with a lid or a large apothecary jar, some fruit, sugar and rum.

You begin by taking the fruit of your choice (either use kind or a variety), weighing it, then mixing with an equal amount of sugar. If you don't have a scale use 125 to 180 ml (½ to ¾ cup) of sugar for each 250 ml (1 cup) of fresh fruit.

Mix the fruit and sugar, then let it stand until the sugar has dissolved and the fruit is juicy, from a few minutes to one or two hours, depending on the fruit. Stir occasionally to distribute the sugar, taking care not to crush the fruit.

Place the fruit mixture in a clean crock or jar and cover with the spirit of your choice—rum, dark or light, brandy or bourbon.

Cover the crock or jar with a lid. Do not secure the metal clamp on a wire bail jar as the gas formed during the fermentation of the fruit may create too much pressure in a tightly sealed jar.

Store the container in a cool, dry place, stirring once or twice a day for the first few days.

As new fruits come into season, prepare them, then mix with an equal amount of sugar, allowing it to stand until the sugar has dissolved before adding to the crock or jar.

The crocked fruit is delicious served over ice cream or cake or served simply with just a spoonful of whipped cream or plain yogurt, but it should be allowed to mature for at least three months before using.

If the temptation to try it is too great, allow at least one week after it is started and at least one week after the addition of each fruit before serving.

Preparation of Fruit

All strawberries - wash quickly under cold water. [illegible] hull.

Cherries - stem, wash and pit.

Apricots - wash, peel, if desired, halve and pit.

[illegible]

boiling water for 60 seconds, then drop in cold water. Slip off skins. Halve, pit, and slice.

Pineapple - peel and remove core and eyes. Cut in cubes or wedges.

Other fruit may also be added, according to your own personal choice.

Leave the fruit in fairly large recognizable pieces. If you cut the fruit too small, you may end up with a [illegible] consistency of a puree.

Time is essential to quality

THE GUNSMITH AT work in his shop

Tim Losey is living proof that fine workmanship with an emphasis on quality hasn't been lost amidst the wave of modern technology.

The Tomahawk area resident spends between 150 and 200 hours hand crafting authentic 19th century black powder guns.

Black powder shooting first caught his eye about 12 years ago, and it wasn't long after that he made his first rifle.

He finds being an avid sportsman combined with his keen interest in history are the main reasons he was attracted to the craft.

Now, through an in-home business called Gun Works, Mr. Losey has enough restoration, repair and craft work to keep him busy on a full-time basis.

"More people are getting interested in black powder shooting, and as a result there's an increased demand for hand-made rifles," he explained.

However, Mr. Losey prefers to keep it as a pastime, rather than being a full-fledged gunsmith.

"I think it would be easy to spoil a good hobby," he said. "I like to keep it so I do quite of my work over the winter." Other occupations include farming and some work in the field of anthropology.

His gun collection features a number of vintage muzzle-loaders, including an 1860 sporting rifle, originally owned by his great-great uncle.

Demonstrating one of his flintlocks, Mr. Losey goes through the steps of loading the main charge, the patch and then the ball into the muzzle, and filling the pan with priming powder. There's a tremendous boom, followed by a billow of smoke when he pulls the trigger.

Mr. Losey also takes part in various black powder meets throughout the west, and he recently won the Saskatchewan provincial championships for the third time in eight years.

These competitions take on the color and excitement of the early times when flintlocks were actually used as a means of survival.

Shooters dress in frontier garb and teepees are used as accommodation.

"The thing we like about black powder is that it's recreational in every sense of the word. It involves the whole family," he explained.

Wives or girlfriends also participate, and Mr. Losey and his wife take in between six to eight shoots a year. Prizes for categories such as rifle accuracy are "more of a bonus," he added.

The local club, the Fort Tomahawk Frontiersmen, will be holding its annual competition on Oct. 16 and 17. The Tomahawk fall rendezvous and primitive rifle matches will be staged on the Losey property located about two miles south of Tomahawk.

Mr. Losey makes sure to take all the time he needs to get "a good wood to metal fit" when crafting a rifle. Patience is an important asset, and the local gunsmith obviously has plenty.

"You can't afford to mess up, so the only thing you can do is go slow," Mr. Losey said.

The finished product is worth all the time and effort, as even modern weapons can't exceed the accuracy of the 1800-style muzzle-loader, he explained. The originals are also much more valuable.

"The modern firearm is just a matter of convenience," Mr. Losey said.

Beware of Bermuda Triangle in new moon

By Joanne Benger

Today is an Ember Day

The moon is in fourth quarter and waning as well as in the fire sign of Leo, which rules the heart.

This is a good time for getting rid of weeds and insects as well as unwanted animals.

This is about your last chance to begin a reducing diet so don't put it off any longer.

Things stick well so get out the glue and cement and do repair jobs. Also have your teeth filled and set fence posts and poles.

Sept. 16 and 17 the moon will be in the sign of Virgo, which rules the bowels. It will be in fourth quarter on Sept. 16 so this is a time for completing projects.

Diet, begin clearing land,

A Farm Wife's Almanac

by Joanne Benger

and buy health foods.

Write and mail letters.

New moon occurs on Sept. 17. New moon looks like a new moon and is the darkest night of all.

Don't fly over the Bermuda triangle or have surgery during new moon. Planes have a tendency to vanish most during full moon and new moon and excessive to occur at this time.

Hospitals should expect more births now, and new moon seems to favor the birth of girls or female animals whereas full moon favors the birth of boys and male animals.

Sept. 18 and 19 the moon is in the harmonious sign of Libra as well as in first quarter with the moon increasing and waxing.

Begin artistic projects or start redecorating your home for you will never work better with color.

You should socialize as well. This is the time to form partnerships, find new friends, or enter into contracts and agreements.

Anything to do with beauty is favored, so start sewing a new wardrobe, give yourself beauty treatments, or color your hair.

If your baking powder seems to have failed you these past two weeks, blame the moon instead and try the same recipe now. It will rise well.

Sept. 20 to 22 we will be in the fruitful sign of Scorpio as well as in first quarter and increasing.

The harmony is gone. Success is replacing friendliness.

Cheap animals may be bought now.

Stock up with medicines for yourself and your animals.

If you wish to fatten up your animals for market, this is a good time to start them on their new rations.

Ditto for yourself if you are too skinny and wish to gain a few curves.

Open a savings account.

Sign business contracts with confidence

If you have spare money, consider investing in property or antiques.

People tend to be very suspicious now so don't go about soliciting money for your favorite charity.

Whose lucky week is it?

Taurus is our luckiest sign until Sept. 23, with those having birthdays between May 15 and 21 luckiest and a new moon occurs Sept. 17. The rest of the week belongs to those born between April 21 and 28. Remember your lucky number is 9. The Celestial number for Taurus is 9. The number of your ruling planet, Venus, is 9. Add the two together and you get 18, which reduces to 9, so it's wise all the way for you.

Important days this week: Sept. 18 is John Diefenbaker's birthday.

Hospital board meets

By Edith Doby

The Hospital Auxiliary met in the board room on Sept. 9 with 10 members present.

Since neither president, Eva Wapshall, or vice-president, Vi Koehnstadt, were able to be present, the meeting was conducted by the treasurer, Marlene Samis.

Plans were made to send two delegates to the A.H.A. convention in Calgary on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 and 2.

A plaque has been purchased to preserve a record of purchases made for the hospital by the auxiliary.

As the items are bought a small marker will be attached to the plaque, giving the name of the article and the date purchased.

It is planned that the plaque will be hung in a prominent place in the hospital.

Mrs. Samis is to purchase a term deposit with the funds that have accumulated in the savings account.

Members were gratified to learn that $5,000 has been earned by the thrift shop in the last three months.

Our appreciation goes to both the customers and the people who donate articles.

The October meeting is to be held on Oct. 14 at 8 p.m. in the board room.

New members and visitors are always welcome.

Drilling history reviewed

By John Gorman

The Canadian oil and gas drilling industry began in a modest way in Ontario in 1858, employing primitive drilling methods to capture the shallow oil deposits in the London-Sarnia region of the province.

While the focus of oilwell drilling was centred in the United States, explorers made periodic forays into potential oil and gas bearing structures in southern Alberta, until the foundation of a Canadian industry was established in the Turner Valley area south of Calgary in the mid 1930s.

The equipment was primitive, but improvements were constantly added. By the time the big strike was made at Leduc in February, 1947, the industry had switched to steel rigs and rotary equipment capable of spinning a drill bit at high speeds thousands of feet below the earth's surface.

By 1960 more than 600 high powered rotary rigs were at work in various parts of Canada, but due to various conditions affecting the economy only about 160 rigs are working today.

Internationally, Canadian drilling technology is considered to be among the most advanced in the world. It got to be that way through a period of evolution which began when the first U.S. oilmen brought their drilling techniques to western Canada 75 years ago.

Spudding in, a term which means starting the hole, was a pretty basic operation in the early days before the turn of the century. The men started digging by hand to a depth of about 60 feet. When spudding was completed, a conductor tube or wooden box was set in place from top to bottom. This provided the foundation from which drilling could begin.

Apparently around 1878, drillers started drilling from the surface and drove a conductor pipe to bedrock to establish the wellhead.

The wooden derrick was known as the "carpenter's rig" and its complete assembly included the foundation, derrick, derrick house and accessories such as the Samson post, walking beam and bull wheel. By 1900 rigs were built about 80 to 100 feet tall using man-sized timbers. The additional height gave the cable tool greater acceleration as it dropped into the hole and chewed away at the underground rock.

When rotary equipment began taking over, probably sometime after World War I, the wooden derricks were still employed but the bull wheel was replaced by a draw works and crown block suspended from the derrick. This new assembly was capable of spinning several thousand feet of pipe with a drill bit on the bottom.

The introduction of rotary drilling was accompanied by the introduction of different kinds of bits, drilling fluids and other new wrinkles which will be the subject of another look at early drilling techniques.

First 4-H horse meeting

The Moonlight Trail 4-H Light Horse Club held their first meeting of the season at the McInnis home on Sept. 6. The main topic of the evening was the NEAACRA rodeo scheduled for Sept. 18 and 19 at the West Valley Park.

Ken Hopf of Drayton Valley is doing the footwork, making this weekend possible. Many businesses, companies and private individuals have supported us fully with their donations for trophies and the added purse.

The rodeo will begin at 1 p.m. Sept. 18. With 12 events, the afternoon will be packed with thrills.

Awards night for the 1981-82 season will be Sept. 18 beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Easyford Hall. Ken Hopf will be the guest speaker.

Meetings will be the second Sunday afternoon of each month. Our next meeting will be Oct. 10 at 1:30 p.m. at the Easyford Hall. Anyone interested in 4-H Light Horse is welcome to attend.

Red poodles came to her out of the blue

By Joanne Bonger

I just took my six toy Poodles for a walk—two white ones, two silver ones, and two red ones—and looked at my bouquet of little dogs and thought, "I am the luckiest person in the world."

I am, too. I never expected to have red toy Poodles. When a friend of ours who is leaving the province listed his animals for sale, I said, "If we win the lottery, we'll buy his red Poodles."

They were out of reach.

The funny thing is, when I went to bed, I could feel the little red dogs were going to come here. "I guess we'll get some unexpected money before he moves," I decided. My psychic talents are very minimal so I always fill in the missing parts with logic.

Two weeks passed. Then came the phone call. "Did you get my letter?"

"No," said I. "We haven't gotten the mail in a week."

"Well, I wrote to ask if you'd consider taking my red toy Poodles if I didn't sell them. Would you be interested?"

He went on to say he'd send his boy with them in the morning.

His boy never came the next day. I thought "Maybe he sold them at the last minute," but no, I knew they were coming.

The day after, his boy came. Red, the male, was a nice confident three-year-old but Amber, the female, a 1982 pup, looked bewildered and lost. She wasn't ready for a second change of home—and yet.

I picked her up and said, "This is a perfect old lady's dog. They always pick the shy puppy who wants the most cuddling."

I was just being conversational, but his boy's approving look made he realize that to him. I am an old lady. He was really pleased that Amber and I got along.

The letter was in our mailbox that day with a picture of Red and details of their breeding. Both had been imported from America, and the male has sharp [redacted].

My sister was amazed when she came down. "He said I can pay for them in '83 or '84, or when we sell their pups," I gushed on, still not really believing my luck.

Red dogs have a certain something special for us in our family. When my father was a lone trapper in the Nahanni, his companion was a big, red dog named Red.

When my father died of a heart attack while pitching stones on the farm, there were three dogs with him. Two ran home, but the red dog stayed with him until my sister came along.

When I was informed of my father's death, I said, "It's funny I never knew about it." Then I happened to remark that just before I got the phone call telling of his death, I had a scary dream about a dog. I couldn't remember anything of the details of the dream except that the dog was red.

No one said anything at the time, but a few years later, my mother remarked that it was strange how the red dog stayed with him when he died, but the other two ran home.

I said, "Did you say red dog?" and the pieces fit.

Amber's sitting on my lap now, and Red is lying under my chair. They act like they have always belonged here. A visitor would never suspect they have been here less than a week.

The first four toy Poodles also accept their coming as a natural, normal thing. There is no jealousy and no fighting. They just sniffed noses in greeting and started [redacted] together.

And so I watched them romp about, I knew that happiness in six toy Poodles, a complete bouquet of fluffy little dogs.

More Alberta Gas for More Canadians.

Joint Alberta/Canada funding creates new markets.

The Government of Canada has a program to create new markets for Alberta's natural gas. And it's funded jointly by the Government of Alberta, under the Canada/Alberta Energy Agreement.

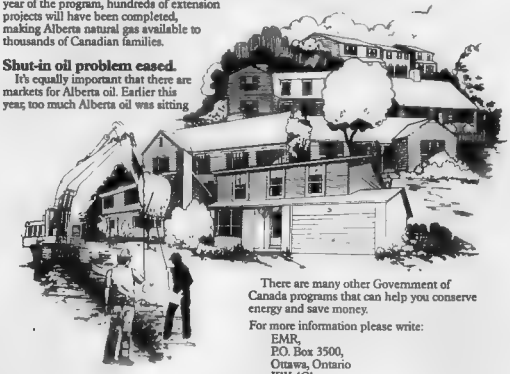
The Distribution System Expansion Program, DSEP, provides grants to gas utilities east of Alberta, enabling them to extend gas service to areas that previously they could not serve profitably. Many of the new customers created by the extended service will be eligible for grants under the successful Canada Oil Substitution Program.

DSEP has been enthusiastically received by the utilities. By the end of 1982, the first year of the program, hundreds of extension projects will have been completed, making Alberta natural gas available to thousands of Canadian families.

Shut-in oil problem eased.

It's equally important that there are markets for Alberta oil. Earlier this year, too much Alberta oil was sitting in the ground because there were insufficient markets for it. This oil wasn't earning money for the people who discovered it, and they need that money to find new oil and help move Canada to self-sufficiency.

In April, the Government of Canada announced measures to ease this problem, and followed it up recently in the National Energy Program Update by facilitating the purchase of Alberta oil by refiners in Atlantic Canada. The problem has eased considerably, but the Government will continue to watch the situation closely and take additional steps if necessary.



There are many other Government of Canada programs that can help you conserve energy and save money.

Buffalo berries make good steak garnishings

By Linda Giroux

Last spring, while pacing off a fence line, I noticed the small greenish drab blossoms of the buffalo berry. Now, with the approach of autumn, the berries are nearly ready for picking. After the first frost, they are best, as they are sweetened by frostin;

The buffalo berry is a small erect shrub. When the wood is burned, it gives off a very unpleasant odor, so the Indian name for the plant is Miss-is a miool, or stink wood.

The leaves are opposite: green above, and covered with silvery brown scales on the undersides. They are slim oval in shape and from one and a half to two and a half inches long.

The blossoms are in small spikes at the joints of the leaves.

The berries are a brilliant, translucent red. They are much loved by birds, and have a queer acrid disagreeable taste. The bitterness is due to saponin, a foam producing agent.

The berry juice, sweetened, and beaten into a foam, can be used as a topping for desserts.

The buffalo berry was commonly used by the Indians and voyageurs as a garnish for buffalo steaks and roasts, hence its name.

The berries can be served with roast beef as well.

The roots of the buffalo berry contain nitrogen fixing bacteria nodes which are usually found only on legumes.

No excuse for carelessness

By George M. Matheson

Why does a hunter shoot another hunter, or for that matter any other person in the bush?

The "pat" answer is "I thought he was a moose," deer, elk, or whatever.

This may be the reason. It is a fairly well known fact that a hunter can see surprising things when he wants to.

I say "reason" but it is no excuse. It is my opinion that hunters ought to face criminal negligence in cases where another person is killed or wounded on purpose.

I know some hunters are going to shout and scream that no hunter would deliberately shoot another.

The fact of the matter is that the hunter deliberately shot at, and hit, an intended target. Where does the responsibility lie? He certainly shot on purpose.

Let me recount a very frightening experience which happened to me when I lived in Manitoba.

I was out spring bear hunting.

In a wide open area which was covered with fairly tall grass I saw a bear.

I stopped, got out my binoculars and gleaned the animal. It was not a very large bear and it was making some mighty strange movements.

Stranger still was the fact that not too far away from this bear was a white dog. The white dog did not appear to be concerned with the bear nor the bear concerned with the dog.

Something was strange about this scene. The bear eventually stood up. It was not a bear. It was a woman in a black coat.

What she was doing out there in the grass I do not know. There were no berries and yet there she was crawling around wearing a black coat with spring bear season in full swing.

I have never shot at anything I could not positively identify, but I had a very thorough and strict upbringing with regard to guns.

What a careless hunter would have done I do not know. One thing I do know for sure is that there are lots of careless hunters around.

Seasoned hunters with many years of experience have mistaken other people for game animals. They may claim to be safe and cautious hunters but I do not agree.

Reading an article in The Journal started me thinking.

Perhaps you saw the same article. Two quite experienced hunters returning from hunting "thought" a tent was a bear. They opened fire and killed a young girl in the tent.

A tent does not look like a bear, a man does not look like a moose, deer or elk.

What should be done with people who make such mistakes? What do you think ought to be done?

The courts in all too many cases rule the shootings as accidents and leave it at that.

I am not going to go into the area of European training for hunting, but I have heard it is very strict. I also hear the st Europeans have a higher success rate and fewer accidents.

Could there be a correlation here to think about? Ask Shirley Crippa.

Seniors go on excursion to the mountains

By Belle Calnan

On Aug. 27 a group of us took a tour to Sylvan Lake and had a wonderful day. We had a barbecue on the lakeshore and could watch people sliding on the waterslide out into the lake.

They were on a very large inner tube and it looked like fun. It was seen fun to watch.

Our co-ordinator, Mary Ayotte, asked us senior citizens if anyone wanted a ride on the slide but no one volunteered.

After a wonderful picnic, we took a drive around town. It's a pretty place although it's different from 40 years ago.

On our way home we stopped at Rimbey and had a lovely supper at our choice. Then we headed for home and the rain man was real sweet as he waited for us to get home safely.

Thanks to all the ladies who made our picnic a success and our driver, Dan Ross.

Then on Sept. 2 a group met at Shangri-La Lodge and left at 9:30 a.m. for another tour headed for David Thompson Resort. Mary Ayotte set a certain time and place for where we were going and it worked out great.

Yes, 25 of us were on our way for a two-day tour. We saw where the landslide had been and had washed out a piece of highway. It sure cleaned out the trees and pushed a lot of mud and rock [illegible] ake.

We then crossed Two O'Clock Creek [illegible] creek stops at 2:00 every day and night for a few minutes.

We saw Michener Mountain across from Windy Point and it was windy too. We arrived in David Thompson Resort at 7:30 p.m. and were glad to know we would be staying all night.

In David Thompson the trees [illegible] the main street are the size of telephone poles and are upside-down. The roots of those trees are really something to see.

David Thompson is a very pretty place with the mountains all around it. We had a lovely supper and were off to our rooms.

Mabel Byers and I shared a room and talked ourselves to sleep.

The next morning we were up bright and early to get a start on our tour. So we were on our way, after we got down the road a little ways I discovered that I had left my purse behind.

We told the driver and he turned around and went back to the resort. There was my purse sitting on the bed where I had left it. If you think I wasn't upset, well I was.

Then we went to the Columbia Icefields and had coffee in the chalet there. Some walked on to where the icefields were but I didn't as I knew I wouldn't make it.

Some of the girls said that there were children playing on the icefield and they had on real heavy winter clothes. It was quite cool up there.

Then we went to see the Athabasca Falls, they are beautiful, but oh so vicious.

After this we headed home and stopped at Nordegg for coffee to see the institution there. Then on to Rocky Mountain House where we went to the museum and saw lots of Indian crafts.

The birch bark canoe was sure lovely to see but you wouldn't catch me in one.

We were told about a man who was mauled by a bear not far from the museum. So far the bear is still roaming around.

Some went out on the mini tour bus and saw a lot more. Our driver, Dan Ross, sure did a good job driving and he sure knows his business.

We went on to Rocky Mountain House and can you imagine how happy Kentucky Fried Chicken was when they got 25 orders.

We took our lunch out to a picnic ground which was a nice clean place and had facilities for camping and picnicking.

We left Rocky Mountain House and went on to Rimbey where we stopped at a park and museum. Some went through the museum and said it sure was nice. Anything from a little church and bell to a general store and a little red barn were there.

Then our next stop was back home with 25 tired, but happy people, after once-in-a-lifetime scenery and great memories.

Our thanks to the ladies who were so kind to us all and a special thanks to our driver.

Mrs. Seton was on the trip and stood it well.

Mrs. Bertha Simpson has had her son and his wife visiting her here. They are from Makyrds and will be returning soon. We wish them a safe trip back.

There are some of our residents still in the Drayton Valley hospital and some improvements in their condition.

Mrs. Ann Look and Thelma Lucas are in Drayton Valley Hospital. Margaret Westlund is doing real well after an operation on her knees. She is in an Edmonton hospital.

Edith Craig has been spending some time with her daughter Hazel in West Cove, which is close to Darwell on Lac Ste. Anne.

We sincerely wish them all a good recovery so get well soon as we miss you all.

Well, our children are back in school. It's so nice to see and hear how happy they are to be back with their friends.

So please drivers take care as we want to keep them alive and happy.

To our new resident Bertha Rabe, we welcome you and hope you will be happy here as I am.

Nursing seminar coming

By Diane Wahlstedt

Women with children have a lot in common. Women who breast feed their children have an even closer bond.

At our nursing mom's meetings, you can feel at home with us. It is probably the only gathering where your children are welcome for they are the focus of our meetings.

We have different topics at each meeting but generally the talk is informal, covering all aspects of child care. A nutritious snack is served during the meeting.

Bring your children and your ideas to our next meeting, Sept. 16 at 10 a.m. in the auditorium of the Provincial Building. The topic will be advantages of breast feeding

Fitness is fun. Try some.

Tomahawk News

by Evelyn Lukasiuk

The Tomahawk Lutheran Church was the scene of a fall wedding Sept. 4, United in marriage at 3 p.m. on this rainy day were Karen Fetting, daughter of Max and Trudy Fetting of Tomahawk, and David McKillop, son of Hilda McKillop of Seba Beach.

Rev. Mark Sallach performed the double-ring ceremony and Adele Blenke of Drayton Valley was the organist.

The father of the bride brought her down the aisle. She wore a white trailing gown of satin with sheer overlay embedded with lace roses in the bodice and long [illegible].

She wore a halo of white flowers in her hair and carried a bouquet of pink [illegible].

Lodgepole family compete in swim meets

By Andrew Plodzik

The Groulx family strikes again!

Three members of the swimming Groulxs, Cathy, Marcie and Angela, are members of the Neptune Swimming Club of Drayton Valley. Last Aug. 14 saw them compete in the finals of the regional competition at Wetaskiwin.

Cathy won the gold medal in the 400 metre freestyle, the gold in the 100 metre breaststroke, the bronze in the 100 metre freestyle and the bronze in the I.M. relay.

Marcie won two firsts in the freestyle and medley relays, and finally Angela came second in the breaststroke.

Cathy went on to the provincials held at the Kinsmen pool in Edmonton on Aug. 21, where she came fourth in the 400 metre freestyle.

Congratulations are in order for your efforts.

Playground New Playsite

Lodgepole community playground was cleaned and repaired over the past couple of weeks. New equipment, held in storage over the past two years, has been installed.

The group involved, working under the direction of Community Association president John Hartl, has been working during the wet weather to install the new equipment and spruce up the old.

The playground, located next to Mr. and Mrs. Kay's residence, now has three sets of swings from baby size through toddler and adult sizes, a set of teeter-totters, roundabout, hang swings and a slide.

Thanks are in order to the following, who donated time or advice or parts to the project:

Bernice and John Hartl, Rodney and Vicky McDonald, Wilfred Weidel, Gene Landry, John Lenhart, Kevin Martin, Lawrence James, Western Decalta and Wilze Construction.

So, mothers, get your children out there and enjoy the benefits of these people's labor while the good weather lasts.

THE GROULX SISTERS, Cathy, Marcie and Angela put in some impressive performances at the regional swimming competition held in Wetaskiwin on August 14.

Fitness is fun. Try some.

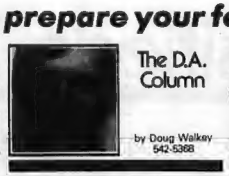
How to prepare your feeder cattle for sale

By Doug Walkey
542-5368



The D.A. Column

by Doug Walkey
542-5368

Anybody ever heard of the Alberta Certified Preconditioned Feeder Program? If you haven't, it's about time you did.

Preconditioning is a management program to prepare feeder cattle so they can best withstand the necessary adjustments and stresses they are subject to when sold as feeders.

When animals have been preconditioned and certified by a vet under the provincial program they are eligible to take part in special sales. Over the past couple of years these sales have brought premium prices for producers.

In order to qualify these are some of the conditions that must be met:

- cattle must be the property of the seller for 60 days before sale;
- cattle must be at least four months of age before vaccination;
- castration and dehorning must be completed at least three weeks before the sale;
- blackleg vaccination three weeks before sale;
- IBR nda Pi vaccination, given by a licenced vet three weeks before sale;
- weanling treated at least two weeks before sale;
- weaned at least 30 days before sale.

Certified animals are given special tags by the vet and a certificate to verify the treatments at sale time. This is really nothing more than our better cattlemen do already: preparing a quality feeder for the market.

There are several special sales highlighting the certified feeders. In past years Ponoka and Rocky Mountain House have been the sales centres. This year Modern Livestock at Westlock is also offering two certified feeder sales on Nov. 15 and Dec. 13, 1982. If you are interested in more information give me a call at 542-5368.

New children's vaccine out

A new vaccine to Alberta will simplify and enhance the province's immunization program for children. It was announced recently by Dr. John Waters, director of communicable disease control with the department of Social Services and Community Health.

MMR (measles, mumps and rubella) vaccine will now be given to all children at 12 months of age.

Previously, the province did not supply mumps and rubella vaccines through its free immunization program.

Dr. Waters said the province will be able to provide the additional protection against rubella (German measles) and mumps at no further cost to the taxpayer.

"In fact, there are several thousand parents who have been paying between $15 and $20 for rubella and mumps inoculations who can now get such protection for their children through the provincial program," Dr. Waters stated.

There will be no change in the current rubella vaccination program for Grade 6 girls and adult women, and they will continue to be encouraged to receive the vaccine as the disease can have tragic effects on an unborn baby if its mother gets rubella during pregnancy.

No formal catch-up program for those who have already received measles alone is planned.

Don't tell your next door neighbors. Because they can't help. But maybe we can. We don't want it to happen again. And we do try to do it right the first time.

We try to answer promptly when you telephone us and connect you to the person you're calling.

We try to deliver your hometown newspaper on time -- rain or shine.

We try to quote you right when you give us the hometown news.

We try to get the facts and phone number right in your classified ad.

We try to put all the right information in your display ad -- just the way you want it.

We try to bill you right.

In other words, we try to give you the old-fashioned kind of service you want so that you'll be satisfied. We honestly try. But we slip up now and again. So tell us straight. And don't go away mad.

Main building - one storey attached structure 62 ft. wide, 205 ft. in length, with 40 ft. eave height, consisting of a clear span steel frame structure, with 10 bays of 20 ft. spans. The roof is supported by 11 main steel trusses at 20 ft. on centres and 33 secondary trusses at 5 ft. on centres. Columns are designed to support a five ton crane with bridge rails, ladders and catwalk maintain the crane rails and powerbus system. Exterior walls are factory enameled, heavy-duty, double walled cladding, with sandwiched insulation material. The building is equipped with 2 service door openings of 30 ft. by 24 ft. and 33 solid roof doors. An annex measuring 62 ft. by 60 ft. by 20 ft. high is attached to the main building. An access platform 14 ft. high and 100 ft. in length, constructed of structural steel, is attached to the other (opposite) length side of the building, complete with stairs and railings. These provide an access platform, which lends itself to an easy conversion of two levels. The side walls of the main building have full length of operable glass windows for illumination and ventilation. Emergency and night lighting system is provided to illuminate the building internally and externally. An inboard fan system is provided and capable of ventilating the entire building. Heavy steel roof awning and vents/heaters are provided to control the operations of the entire building, both on single and in three phase servicing. The wiring and electrical control systems are completed. The building, as set up at the site, will be sold by ordinary dismantling and erection program, which, with careful handling and transportation, will provide a very "desirable and functional fabricated building. Discussions with Washington Engineering Limited a representative have indicated that the subject structure is designed by a "bolt construction method", whereby the main components and structural supports of the building can be readily disassembled without major complications to the building itself.

Tucker property to be rezoned

By Stuart Adams

Land development was the major topic at last Thursday's Drayton Valley town council meeting.

In response to a recommendation from the Municipal Planning Commission, a motion was passed to forego further consideration of deannexation of the Poplar Ridge subdivision. "Deannexation is not a solution itself and would create other problems," said councillor Jim Wolff.

However, land known as "The Tucker Property" will be rezoned from residential to industrial under a motion passed at the meeting.

Town council felt Drayton Valley should be prepared for industrial development such as the Aspen Project, which is a non-polluting industry. The land is administered under the Alberta Housing Land Bank Program and information was tabled that contact with Alberta Housing and the local MLA had indicated such a change would be approved.

Councillor Jim Wolff disagreed with an immediate rezoning of the property. "Before I feel comfortable in voting in favor of changing the zoning I'd want a comment from the planner for Drayton Valley, from the Yellowhead Regional Planning Commission and also from the developers of the Ellis Industrial property," he said.

He expressed further concern over the designation of additional properties for industrial development when little has happened to the Ellis Industrial area. "We'd better concentrate on the property we have before we get further industrial land," he said.

RCMP nullify molester rumor

By Roxanne Cusak

Reports of a child molester on the prowl have been falsified.

RCMP received a complaint on Sept. 14 regarding the suspicious behavior of an older man driving a blue Volkswagen Beetle. The man was said to have approached two young girls walking home from school, offering them candy and a ride in his car, said Corporal Chris Lee.

"Upon further investigation police discovered that the allegation is completely false and that the young children fabricated the story," said Corporal Lee.

He added that a large number of false stories have circulated as a result of the release of this information to the students, and parents have been contacting the detachment to have these stories verified.

"We have no active information that parents should be overly concerned about the safety of their children," he said.

"All rumors relating to child molesting around the schools are nothing more than exaggerated imaginings of the children," stated Corporal Lee.

He went on to say that, "we've always had a belief in this community that there is no reason to be concerned about this activity and this belief should continue with normal preventative measures."

School additions approved

By Chris Shanahan

Additions to Frank Maddock High School and H.W. Pickup Junior High School have been approved by the County of Parkland board of education, and now only ministerial approval is required before work can begin.

Tenders for over $2 million at Frank Maddock and $666 thousand at H.W. Pickup were given the go-ahead at a board meeting held in Stony Plain on Sept. 14.

George Lack, director of facility services, said the education minister has 30 days from the time tenders close to make a final decision.

"We'll act quickly when we get approval," he said. "We want to get the contract signed and the work under way as soon as possible."

A two-storey vocational training structure has been planned for Frank Maddock. The proposed addition would be used for courses such as welding, building construction and automotives. It would also include a beauty culture centre, plus a music and ancillary room.

H.W. Pickup is slated to receive a 400-metre addition which will house two home economics rooms, and allow for renovations to the existing gymnasium.

Mr. Lack noted that there was "a great deal of interest" shown in the construction projects, with a total of 97 sub trades taking part.

Due to time constraints, the County undertook planned portable work at the junior high before school re-started, he added. A number of units have been added to the south side of the school, with a corridor connecting them to the main building.

Frank Maddock principal Ritchie Woods feels confident ministerial approval will come through soon.

"They could be turning sod at the site in three weeks," he said.

Mr. Woods was ecstatic when he first learned of the
